ACTIVITY REPORT

2020 - 2023

5 GENDER EQUALITY

Between 2020 and 2023, the world experienced significant social and political upheavals that had a profound effect on the rights of women and girls. The Covid-19 pandemic added to these vulnerabilities, causing an increase in domestic violence and slowing down the pace of any progress made towards gender equality. At the same time, movements opposed to women's rights have gained ground and are posing a threat to the advances previously made, worsening inequalities already exacerbated by armed conflicts and climate change.

Despite the significant progress made between 2015 and 2020, UN Women estimates that, if we continue at the current pace, it will take almost three hundred years to achieve gender equality. In response to these challenges, France declared gender equality and the promotion of the equal rights for women and girls as a national priority ("grande cause nationale") in 2017. This means that these issues have become a priority for French foreign policy, as illustrated by France's International Strategy for Gender Equality (2018-2022), which has made France one of the world's leading countries promoting feminist foreign policy.

The Support Fund for Feminist Organizations (FSOF) is a flagship initiative for French feminist foreign policy, and was introduced at the G7 Summit in 2019. This fund is managed by Agence Française de Développement (AFD) and the French Ministry for Europe and Foreign Affairs, and aims to provide long-term support for feminist Civil Society Organizations (CSOs) in France's partner countries. Overall funding of €120 million was initially committed for the 2020-2022 period, and then increased to €250 million for 2023-2027.

Mid-term assessment (2020-2022)

€135 M
 approved compared to an initial target of €120 M

A mid-term assessment of the FSOF was carried out in 2022. The outcome showed just how relevant this initiative is, and its ability to reach feminist civil society organizations, as well as the fund’s remarkable responsiveness from the outset. Recommendations for adapting procedures and making governance more open were taken on board. The challenges to address include: mobilizing the organizations involved in the FSOF as a community; ensuring in-depth inclusion of feminist approaches, including in partnership relations; and providing financing over the long term.

CAMELEON

This project takes a holistic and integrated approach to protecting and accompanying young victims of sexual violence. This approach aims to support these victims into becoming advocates for change. Collaborating with local partners and capitalizing on this model in Phase 3 of the project will help secure these initiatives over the long term.

✓ Care and reintegration support was provided to 181 young girls victims of sexual violence. Improved access to education for 300 young people. Local, regional and national awareness and advocacy campaigns were launched to address sexual abuse against children and teenagers.

Effective advocacy for legislation that protects women's rights

Reinforcing the capacity of feminist organizations to employ advocacy techniques and deploy collective advocacy actions has proven effective, since this financing contributed to modifying the regulatory and legislative frameworks of certain countries working towards gender equality. In Benin, women are now authorized by law to decide to terminate a pregnancy in the first 12 weeks. In Mexico, a decree was published in 2022 to place domestic workers, who are mainly women, under the general social security scheme and since 2023 employers have been obliged to officially declare these workers, which is a considerable improvement to their protection.

Channel 3 flagship projects

The French Ministry for Europe and Foreign Affairs is supporting local feminist organizations using financing modalities such as the Équipe France Fund managed by French embassies. Since 2023, initiatives to support feminist organizations funded by the Ministry's Crisis and Support Center have been included in the FSOF.

2021 - 2022

Reducing gender-based violence

ETHIOPIA

€850,000 grant

This project was introduced by the French Embassy in Ethiopia and has already supported 20 CSOs in addressing gender-based violence across eight federal regions and the capital, Addis-Abeba. The project attracted the attention of the country's authorities, including its President. Drawing on this experience, in 2023 the Embassy went on to launch a support project for feminist CSOs to strengthen the legal protection of victims of gender-based violence.

Services are now available to provide integrated care for victims of violence. Local authorities are informed and social workers at community centers have undergone training.

Reducing gender inequalities in Central America

PANAMA, COSTA RICA, NICARAGUA, SALVADOR, HONDURAS, GUATEMALA

€600,000 grant

The aim of the project is to help reduce gender inequalities in six countries in Central America. To this date, 20 CSOs have been supported. The elaboration of a multidimensional and cross-cutting approach to inequalities, particularly with regard to discriminations faced by indigenous and rural communities, has been recognized as a key driver for success. This support has encouraged other donors to get involved, thereby opening doors to additional sources of financing.

272 training courses were organized on the topics of gender equality, gender-based violence and comprehensive sexuality education, and income-generating activities have been introduced for CSOs working towards economic justice.

2022 - 2023

Supporting feminist CSOs with innovative projects

GABON

€485,000 grant

2023

Supporting educational programs for women and girls

AFGHANISTAN

€850,000 grant

The Ministry's Crisis and Support Center has been funding the NGO Begum Organization for Women in Afghanistan for two years, with the aim of providing educational and recreational programs for women and girls, in the Pashto and Dari languages, using the organization's radio broadcasts. A remote learning platform is expected to be developed alongside this initiative.

- ✓ 50,000 women and girls benefit from the programs. The radio broadcasts are available six days a week, and these broadcasts now cover six of the country's provinces.

Generation Equality Forum

In 2021, France jointly organized the Generation Equality Forum with Mexico. This forum, convened by UN Women, was the first large-scale feminist event since the Beijing Conference in 1995. This event launched a five-year action agenda, involving multiple stakeholders, to accelerate progress made towards gender equality thanks to unprecedented financial commitments (US$40 million in total). The FSOF is one of the most notable examples.
